Problem Statement:

- I. Nowadays, saving money is more difficult than earning it. People can earn money in many ways but they can save it in only one way. i.e., controlling or managing the expenditure.
- II. Middle class family in India suffers a lot in controlling their expenses, paper and pen method couldn't able to make it happen in this digital world. They are in need of software for tracking their expenditure.
- III. People need a software which could track their expense in the daily, weekly, monthly even for yearly basis. This application would give a visualisation method of insights.
- IV. Alert message is the key to control people from over expense, alert messages are received through an e-mail.
- V. Maintaining a good habit is difficult to follow, usually people skip those habits to be in their comfort zone. This is also reflected in controlling their expenditure, usually they snooze their target and they start their habit of over spending.
- VI. The laziness on entering their expenditures is also the key reason for the failure of the objective.
